PREPARATION AND SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS

The Journal of Intercultural Disciplines publishes scholarly contributions of its membership within any academic field that facilitates understanding of the experience and behavior of populations of color, both in the United States of America and other countries. This includes reports of empirical research, discussions and current literature, original theoretical analyses of data, or literary productions, studies or programs. The Journal publishes the most selective work presented by its members from its annual national conference.

All manuscripts must comply with the following requirements: (1) have a maximum length of 25 pages; (2) include a 25-30 word abstract; (3) be double-spaced (including references) and provide a one-inch margin on all sides; (4) have written only on the first page: author's (authors') name, address, e-mail address, and the subject area that the manuscript reflects (African American Studies, Asian Studies, Curriculum and Instruction, Counseling, Latin American Studies, Native American Studies, Psychology, etc.); (5) be submitted in 12-pt Times New Roman font; (6) be submitted electronically (journal@naaas.org); (7) use the most recent edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) as a manual for style and manuscript format (Authors
